UK Outlook for Sunday 19 Dec 2021 to Tuesday 28 Dec 2021:
At the start of this period it will be settled and predominantly dry with large amounts of cloud, though cloud may well be thick enough for the odd spot of drizzle at times. In general, cloud amounts will tend to reduce with time, with a corresponding increase in the risk of overnight fog and frost, which may be slow to clear by day in some areas. There will be a slight chance of rain at times in the far north and northwest, with some stronger winds here. Temperatures will generally be near average, and locally mild in the north, but perhaps rather cold at times in the south and feeling chilly where any fog persists.
